PASSING OF R-LESS MONTHS SIGNAL FOR RETURN OF DYSTER

Make Their Appearance Today.

The first oysters of the season, from the cargo of the Hallie K., which argived at the Eleventh street wharf last night, were the prominent wares on the Washington food markets this morning. The bivalves are of good quality, and brought 60 cents per bushel, which is about the customary price for the unhusked product.

Retail prices on fish remain about the same as last week, in spite of the forced advance by the wholesale dealers on account of the smallness of the catches during the recent storms on the Atlantic, which also have had a demoralizing effect on the Potomac and Chesapeake fisheries. Despite the recent reports that prices on beef and pork products were scheduled to soar, no advance is shown today. Prices on fowly are a shade lower.

With the coming of clear weather activities in truck and vegetables will be resumed, and the rains will make a more plentiful supply, if an early frost does not intervene. Fruits are scheduled for a decrease in price, dealers say.

Wild mushrooms are plentiful, selling at from 10 to 15 cents per box. A

First Bivalves Of the Season Citizens' Association May File Suits Against the Hauling Companies.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU,

ANACOSTIA, D. C., SEPT. 1. Negotiations between the citizens of Anacostia, the express companies of the District, and the railway transfer companies, with the Interstate Commerc Commission acting as an adjusting body, over the failure of the companies to make deliveries here on the same basis as for the city proper, are still barren of results, and within a short time it will be known whether the Anacostia Citizens' Association will file formal suits against any or all of the companies involved to determine whether their attitude toward this section of the District constitutes unjust discrimination in violation of the act to regulate commerce. It seems practically certain that this action will have to be taken if the citizens are desirous of securing a decision in the matter. The voluntary action of the companies in relieving the situation, which was expected when the Interstate Commerce Commission invited their attention to the representations of the citizens, has not materialized. On the contrary, the express companies have declined to alter their methods of conducting business here, and it isstated the Interstate here, and it isstated the Interstate Commerce Commission has received similar refusals from the freight departments of the Pennsylvania railroad and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, although their replies have not yet reached President Charles R. Burr, of the Anacostia Citizens' Association. When they do he will refer the issues as disclosed by the various replies to Frank Bright, attorney for the association, who will then determine whether to proceed with formal suit.

John Ellerton Lodge Takes Nurse As Bride

Washington social circles were greatly surprised and interested today to learn through reports from Boston of the marriage of John Ellerton Lodge, son of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, and Miss Mary Connolly, a beautiful nurse from the Carney Hospital, Bos-

Back Bay society was as much sur-prised as Washington. The wedding was in the rectory of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross by Rev. Father Finne-Several months ago Miss Connolly nursed Mr. Lodge through a serious illness, and there was a report then of their engagement. This was denied.
